Candidate at Brown University Where Member of Wilson Cabinet Makes Address.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 21.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, motored to Providence to-day from the home of his friend, Benjamin Barker, at Tiverton, where he had been since his arrival here Monday night, for a day of activity in college affairs.

Mr. Hughes, who is a member of the Board of Trustees of the institution at the historic First Baptist Meeting House, not far from a place reserved for Franklin Lane, Secretary of the Interior, who was invited some time ago to deliver an address, and later was the guest of President Paunce of Brown at a reception.

The day's programme also included

JULY A BIG MONTH FOR POOR KIDDIES WHO LIKE TO PLAY

That's the Time Set for the Opening of Seventy-five
New Play Streets.

Playgrounds for kiddies. During the week of July, seventy-five play streets will be opened for summer playgrounds for children, as advocated by The Evening World.

The play streets, which were inaugurated two years ago in the campaign carried on by The Evening World to secure more play spaces for children, have demonstrated their great value to the community, and it is estimated that before long the number to be opened will be doubled.

The streets were selected several days ago by Police Commissioner Woods, accompanied by Madeline Stevens, Supervisor of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, and Sophie Irene Loch of The Evening World staff.

These streets, located in the congested areas of the city where hundreds of children are housed in one block, have proved a great boon. For certain periods of the day the streets are closed and the policemen prevent any traffic from interfering with the children's play.

The cost of a supervisor is approximately $12 a week. Such supervision has proved of great value to the children, who are thus kept together and interested suitably to keep from going to other streets that are open to traffic. The supervisor also sees that only wholesome play is allowed.

The play street thus becomes a play center and accommodates children from surrounding territory.

Commissioner Woods a couple of days ago sent a strong appeal to the children of private schools who go away for the summer to make contributions to the public street playgrounds for children who must remain in the city.

The first response came yesterday from two little brothers as follows: Old Lyme Inn, Lyme, Conn.

Dear Sir: My brother and I saw the letter of Commissioner Woods to private school children about play streets, and as my brother and I go to private school we thought we would like to contribute a little money, so we herewith inclose $6 for that purpose. Sincerely yours, DOUGLAS DIERVOISE, ROBERT DIERVOISE.

The inauguration of the play streets during July will assume the form of a celebration. The police band will participate in the opening of the street centers.

The ladies of The Evening World Co-operation Committee will view the children's activities from automobiles. The leaders of this committee are Mrs. William Grant Brown, Chairman of the Local Board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Florence Guernsey, ex-President of the City Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Robert F. Cartwright, Chairman of Public Safety Committee; Miss Helen Varick Boswell, President of the Women's Forum. The chief implements of play on the streets are rubber balls, basketballs and jumping ropes. Donations of the same will be received by the Parks and Playgrounds Association.

The following streets in the most congested areas will be opened first: Henry Street, between Catharine and Oliver; Mulberry, Canal to Heister; Scammel, East Broadway to Madison; Bedford, Commerce to Morton; West 11th, Hudson to Bloeker; Mott, Bayard to Canal; Forsyth, Canal to Heister; Delancey, Pitt to Ridge; Horatio, Greenwich to Washington; Sullivan, 3d to Washington Square; Suffolk, Houston to Stanton; East 5th, Avenue B to C; East 16th, Avenue A to First Avenue; West 30th, 5th to 9th Avenue; West 35th, 9th to 10th Avenue; West 40th, 9th to 10th Avenue; East 31st, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 41st, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 46th, 2d to 3d Avenue; West 46th, 8th to 9th Avenue; West 63d, Amsterdam to West End Avenue; West 69th, West End to Amsterdam Avenue; East 57th, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 76th, 2d to 3d Avenue; East 78th, 3d to Lexington Avenue; East 91st, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 93d, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 101st, Lexington to Park Avenue; East 100th, 1st to 2d Avenue; East 105th, 1st to 2d Avenue; Park Avenue, 117th to 118th; Park Avenue, 117th to 118th; Park Avenue, 117th to 118th; Old Broadway to Amsterdam Avenue; 132d, Old Broadway to Amsterdam Avenue; West 114th, 5th to Lenox Avenue; West 118th, 5th to Manhattan Avenue; East 123d, Pleasant Avenue to River; West 125th, 5th to Lenox Avenue; West 144th, 7th to First Avenue; West 173d, Park to Washington Avenue; Bronx; Washington Square Park.

BOY "SHERLOCK" TRAILS SUSPECTS; RECOVERS LOOT

Hyman Cohen, Thrilled by
Detectives of Fiction, Causes
Arrest of Four as Burglars.

The exploits of Nick Carter, Old Sleuth, Sherlock Holmes and other man-hunters of fiction have often thrilled Hyman Cohen, eighteen years old, and filled him with the ambition to rival their deeds of sagacious daring in the detection of crime. But there is so little opportunity for kids to shine in that line in these prosaic days young Hyman never thought, until to-day, that he might be the hero of an adventure quite as exciting as any experienced by his story-book heroes.

The unexpected happened last night and early this morning, however, when Hyman trailed two alleged burglars to their hiding place, brought about their arrest and helped recover hundreds of dollars' worth of valuables stolen from the apartment of his uncle, Samuel Chester at No. 145 Madison Avenue.

Young Cohen, who lives at No. 199 East Ninety-sixth Street, went to visit his uncle last evening. As he was about to enter the house he saw two roughly clad men come forth, heavily laden with bulky bundles. Their appearance and the bundles aroused Hyman's suspicions.

What would Nick Carter or Sherlock Holmes do in case like this? Instantly Hyman decided. Undoubtedly they would trail the suspects. That's what Hyman did. He followed the two men to No. 139 East One Hundred and Second Street and saw them disappear into the basement. Then he returned to the Madison Avenue house and went to his uncle's apartment. He found it had been robbed. When his uncle returned Hyman told him and the police how he had shadowed the two suspects.

Hyman was assigned to lead Detectives Veale and Mancini to the hiding place of the men. Until 2:30 this morning the detectives kept watch over the place. Then they broke into the cellar apartment and a battle that would have given the author of "Sherlock Holmes" material for a dozen exciting pages followed. The detectives were set upon by four men, they say. All were subdued and arrested. In the cellar were found all the articles stolen from the Chester apartment with the exception of three diamond rings.

The men arrested said they were John Keever, thirty-four years old, of No. 148 Tenth Avenue; Michael Kelly, twenty-three, of No. 2700 Eighth Avenue; Perry and Thomas Addy, both of No. 159 East One Hundred and Second Street. Young Cohen identified Keever and Kelly as the men he had seen coming from the apartment house with the bundles. They were sent to Harlem Court, charged with burglary, and Perry and Addy were held pending further investigation.

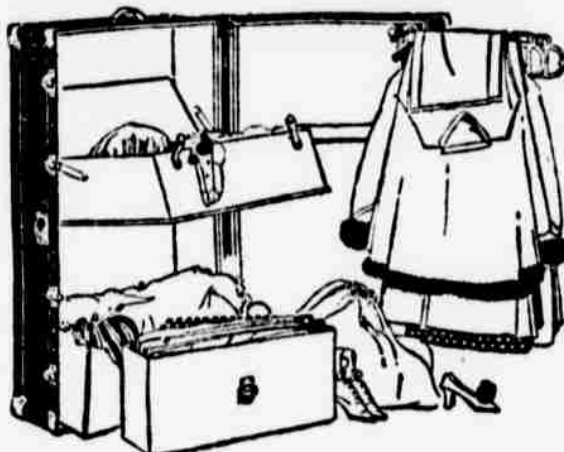

At the Branch Detective Bureau it was noticed Kelly limped. Detectives made him remove his shoes, and in one were found the three missing diamond rings. Keever, the police say, became enraged and accused Kelly of "holding out" on him. He declared Kelly planned and committed the burglary. Under duress used to tell Hyman he ought not to read detective stories. Now he says he's going to buy him a bunch of the best of them and tell him to read all.

The May Manton Fashions

THIS is a practical, useful costume that will appeal to all women. The skirt can be made of gabardine or of serge, as it is here, and the blouse of Georgette crepe or crepe de chine or some such material, or linen or cotton gabardine could be used for the skirt, with cotton voile or cotton crepe or handkerchief lawn for the blouse. These materials all are pretty and all are smart. The skirt is a very simple one to make and a very satisfactory one. It consists of a straight piece. For heavier materials it is box pleated and joined to a plain yoke. For thin materials it is gathered. The pleated yoke is gathered over the plain one. The blouse is a very simple one, but the jabot falls that are attached to the front edges give a distinction and novelty. If a very dainty effect is wanted, it would be pretty to scallop the edges of the falls for the front and for the sleeves and also to scallop the collar. For scallops are always dainty and always practical and are suitably used this season. Women who like a touch of color on white could use a colored thread for the purpose and perhaps work a little dot within each scallop. The gathered skirt is entirely different in effect from the pleated one and becomes adapted to voile, marquisette, net and materials of such sort, also to the many beautiful bordered fabrics that are so notable this season. With such a skirt a Russian blouse or a blouse with a short pelium would be pretty, and when one of these is worn the pleated yoke would be omitted.

For the medium size the blouse will require 4 yards of material 27 inches wide; 2½ yards 36 or 24 yards 44; for the skirt will be needed 4½ yards 27, 34 yards 36 or 4 yards 44, or 3½ yards of flouncing 36 inches wide, with ¼ of a yard of material 36 inches wide for the yoke.

The blouse pattern No. 9118 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and the No. 9119 in sizes from 24 to 34 inches waist measure.

No. 9118—(With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance.) BLOUSE WITH JABOT

FRILLS, 34 to 42 bust measure.
